GET TOGETHER

This is the Advice of an Old-Time Democrat.

LET THE MAJORITY RULE.

Blue Springs, Ky., Dec. 18 (Special).—A few days after the Chicago Convention, when I heard the result and read the platform, the office was full of men rejoicing over the platform, glorifying the nomination of the "matchless." I made three predictions: First, none of you men will ever live to see a law on any statute book authorizing the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1; second, none of you older men will ever see another Democratic President; and, third, you may never see another Democratic Governor of Kentucky.

The men, of course, hooted at me and said the "matchless" would carry everything before him, just like a Western cyclone. To listen to them, you would have thought that he would carry every precinct in the United States, half, at least, of the foreign countries and all of the outlying islands. But "the best-laid schemes of mice and men gang aft agley," and the "matchless" was snowed under.

Whenever a lot of men will get together and resolve that the judges of the Supreme Court of the United States are a set of scoundrels for declaring a certain law of the United States unconstitutional and the President a usurper and traitor for protecting United States property and the mails and quelling a riot the Governor could not or would not suppress, and encouraging a lot of professional deadbeats and tramps such as Coxey and Kelly, let alone 16 to 1, that is enough to beat any party on earth. And if you say a word or utter a syllable against it, you are an arch-traitor or something worse. The fact is, "judgment has flown to brutish beasts, and men have lost their reason."

A few years ago some of these self-styled leaders wanted the people to send them to Congress to repeal that "infamous McKinley tariff," that being the only thing that was hurting the "dear people." Of course, they were beaten. But the time came for another election. The same fellows wanted to go to Congress again. This time it was that "midnight crime of '73" that was robbing the dear people of their hard earnings.

As for me, I have always belonged to the Democratic family, having started in 1860 by voting for that Democratic statesman, Stephen A. Douglas, and have always voted for the man nominated by the regular Democratic convention, whether I liked him or not. This may be bad politics, and I suspect it is, but what could I do? Must I desert my family when it goes against my wishes, or must I stick to it in the hope that it will do better in the future? I can't leave it; I am not built that way. What, then, is the wisest course for us to pursue?

In the first place, to my mind, we should quit calling each other pet names such as arch-traitor, matchless leader, etc. Now, I know men who are just as good Democrats as those who use such terms in such proportion, who are not ready to believe that Mr. Carlisle is an "arch-traitor." I also know others that have failed to be convinced that the gentleman from the raging Flatie is "the matchless leader."

The election is over, but Mr. Goebel and company are not satisfied, after declaring in speeches that "if there was any stealing done, the Republicans wouldn't do it." I want in the cold eight miles to vote for Mr. Goebel, and I feel that we were honestly beaten, and I believe it is part of Democracy for the majority to rule, so it looks not only unmanly and childish to contest the fairly expressed wishes of the people, but it looks hoglike and contemptible.

Let's go together and be decent and honest; then we can win, and not till then. This is the advice of one of the oldest Democrats in this part of the vineyard. Will you take it?

I will not attempt to give you the general news, as your worthy and able correspondent from this place will keep you posted in that line. J. W. H.

Brave Man Fall

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backaches, nervousness, headaches, and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Louisville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at Short & Haynes' Drug Store. Every bottle guaranteed.

Precious Gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Richardson, of Brandenburg, were the recipients of a most excellent holiday gift and that was a beautiful daughter.
